Lemmie break this down Doc. You have wings. The master doesn't. The sooner you learn how to fly, the sooner you'll gain an advantage on avoiding and outmaneuvering him. Unless of course, you like getting caught~

I suggest finding the first opening you see, than take advantage and try nibbling on Rainbow's wings to better your chances of getting the upper hand, then reestablish your dominance from there. You can do it, Doctor!

Come on Doctor, you're not seriously going to let Dash get the better of you, are you? There's been plenty of challenges in your life, but the one thing you can proudly say you have never faltered at is your skills in bed! Don't let her get the satisfaction of winning! Fight back or something! She can't do any more damage to you if you're the dominant one and doing damage to her

I had lived most of my life without friends, aside from my Brother. When I moved to Ponyville, I finally learned how magical friendship could be. I had the 5 best friends in the world.

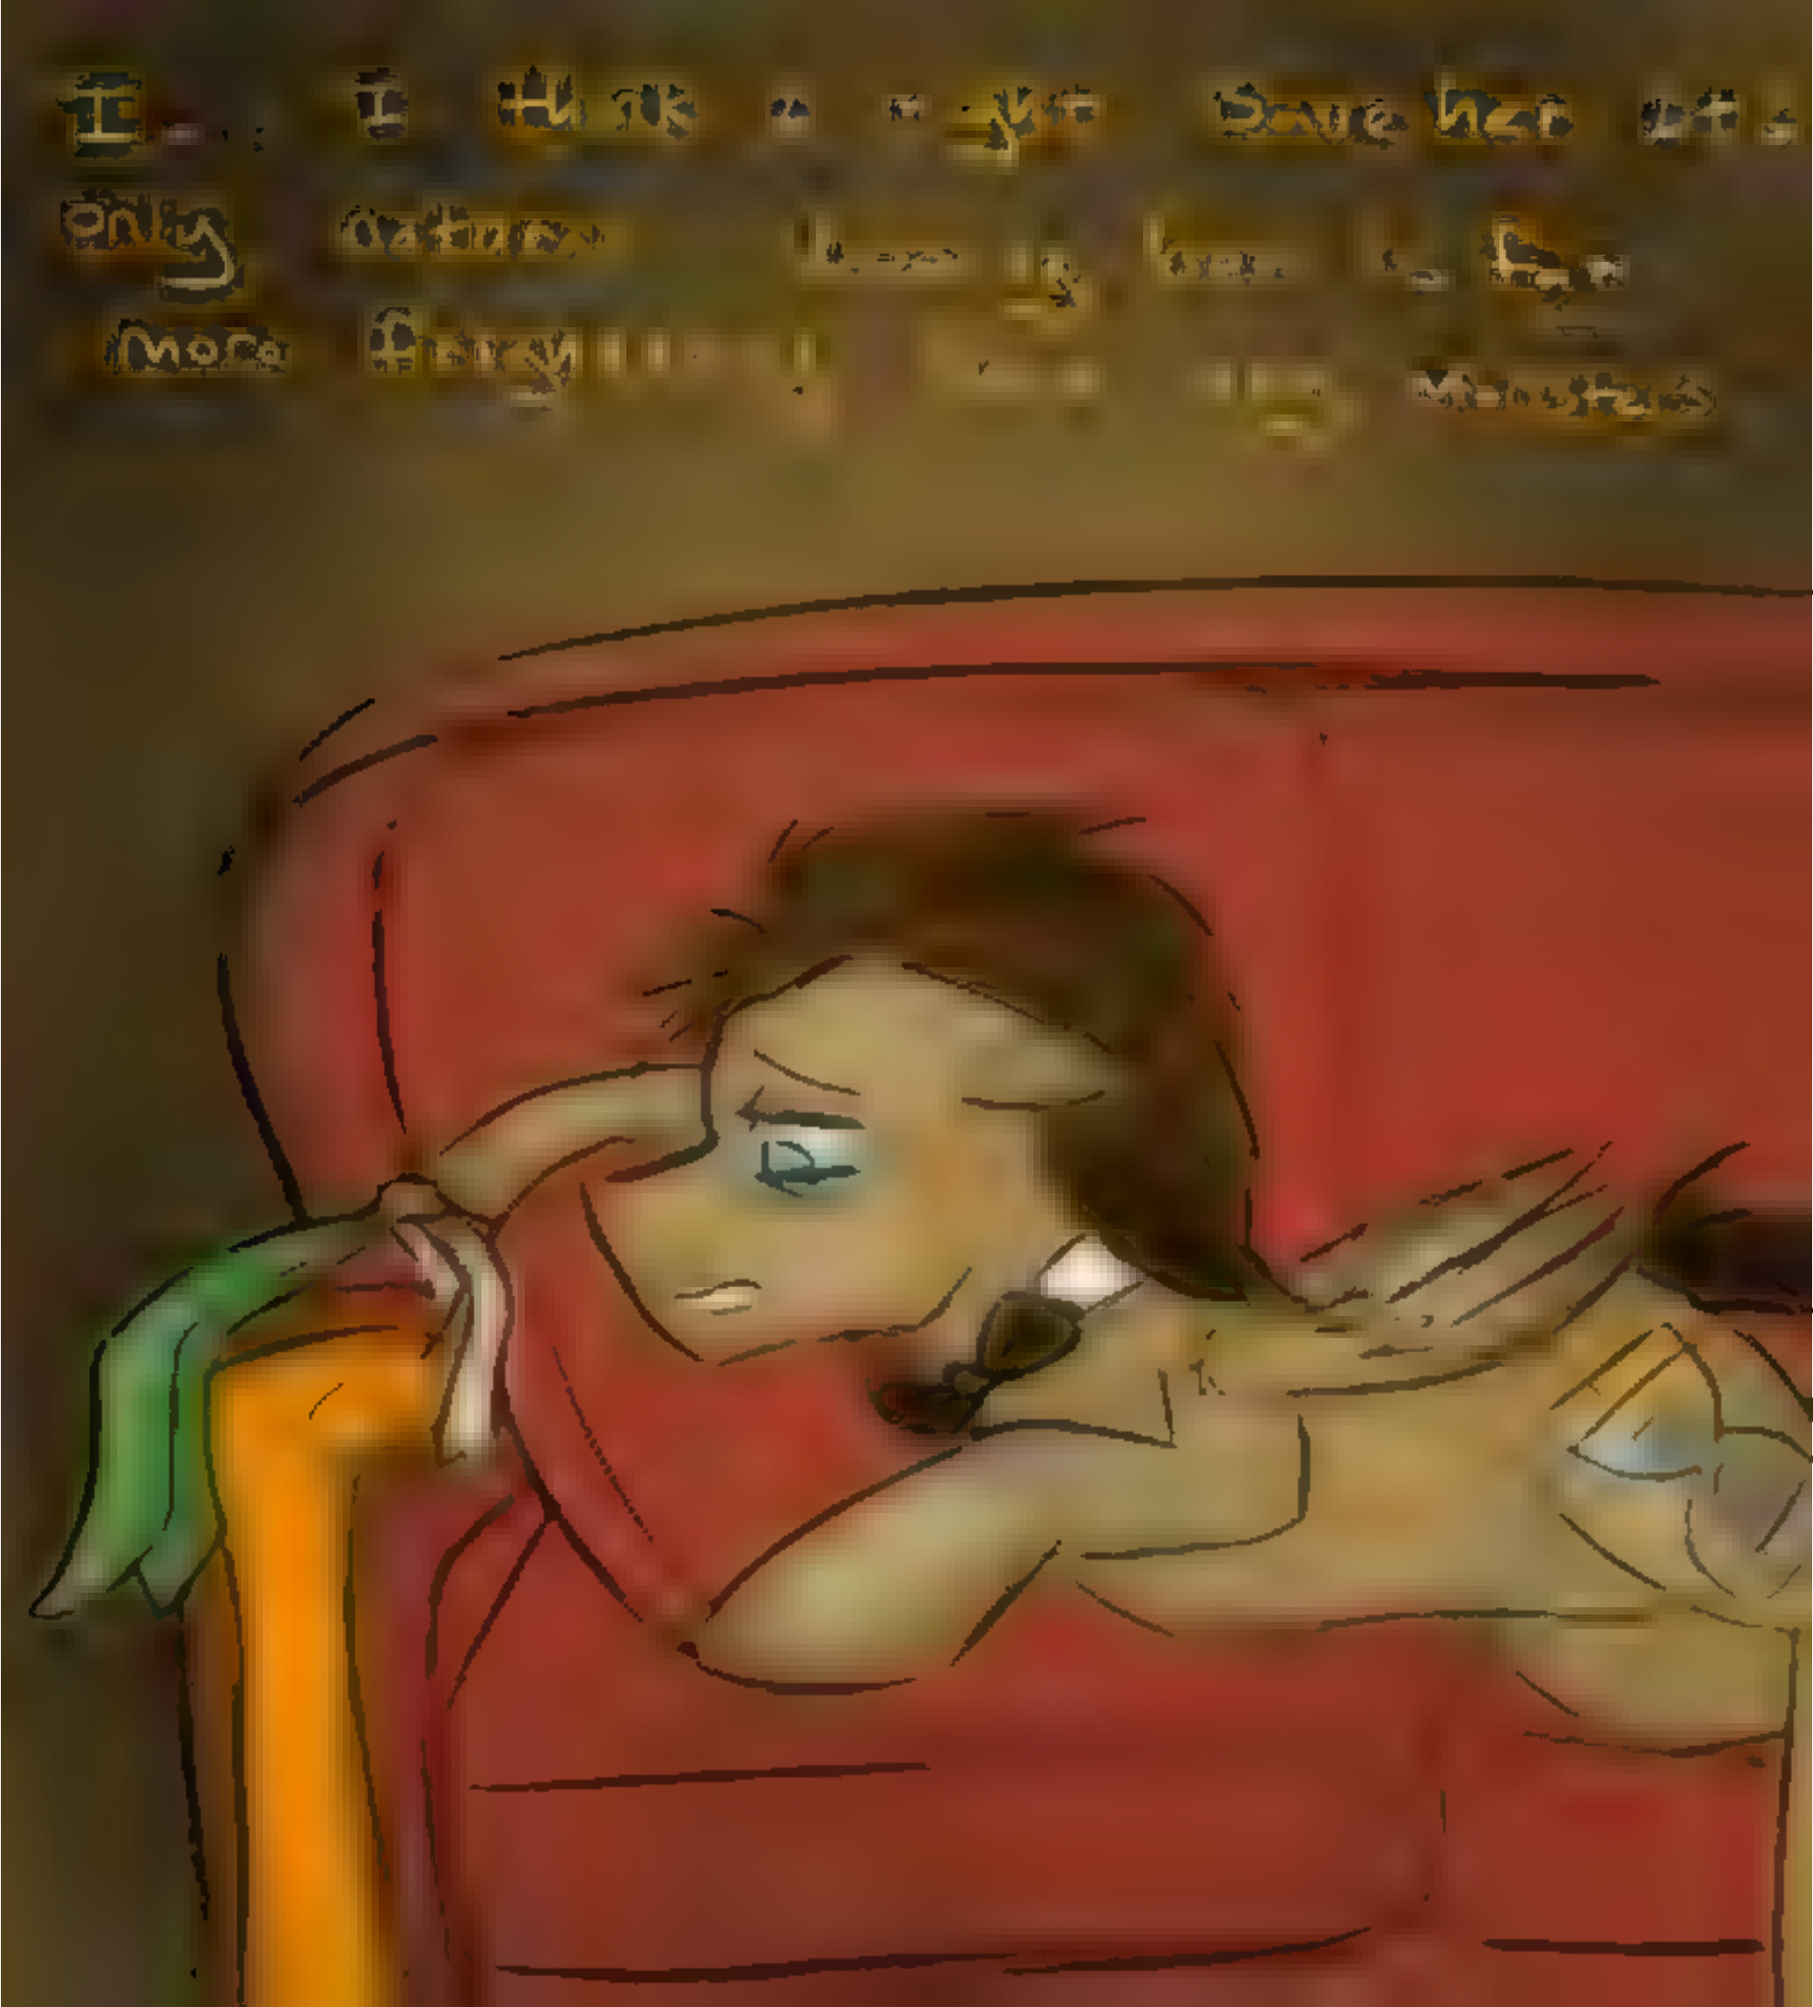
I have a quick moral question if twilight was being threatened by death, from a monster from your universe that somehow got here would you sacrifice yourself to save her, or would you be a coward and hide while she dies?



What if another stallion wants to take your Twilight?

Hi there Doc I just wanted to point out a thing you said You said the difference between Twilight sparkle and Derpy is that you despise derpy well you didn't despise her from the beginning so I don't see the reason why you think you won't start despising Twilight too I mean, for you to have been with derpy for so long must have meant that you did have some kind of feelings for her, the same kind of feelings you currently have for miss Sparkle Think about that You've said before that you're not interested in long term relationships and that you're not too interested in trying to make a pony happy but what about miss Twilight Sparkle? If she were truly interested in being in a long term relationship with you and it would make her happy what would be your stance on the matter?

No!

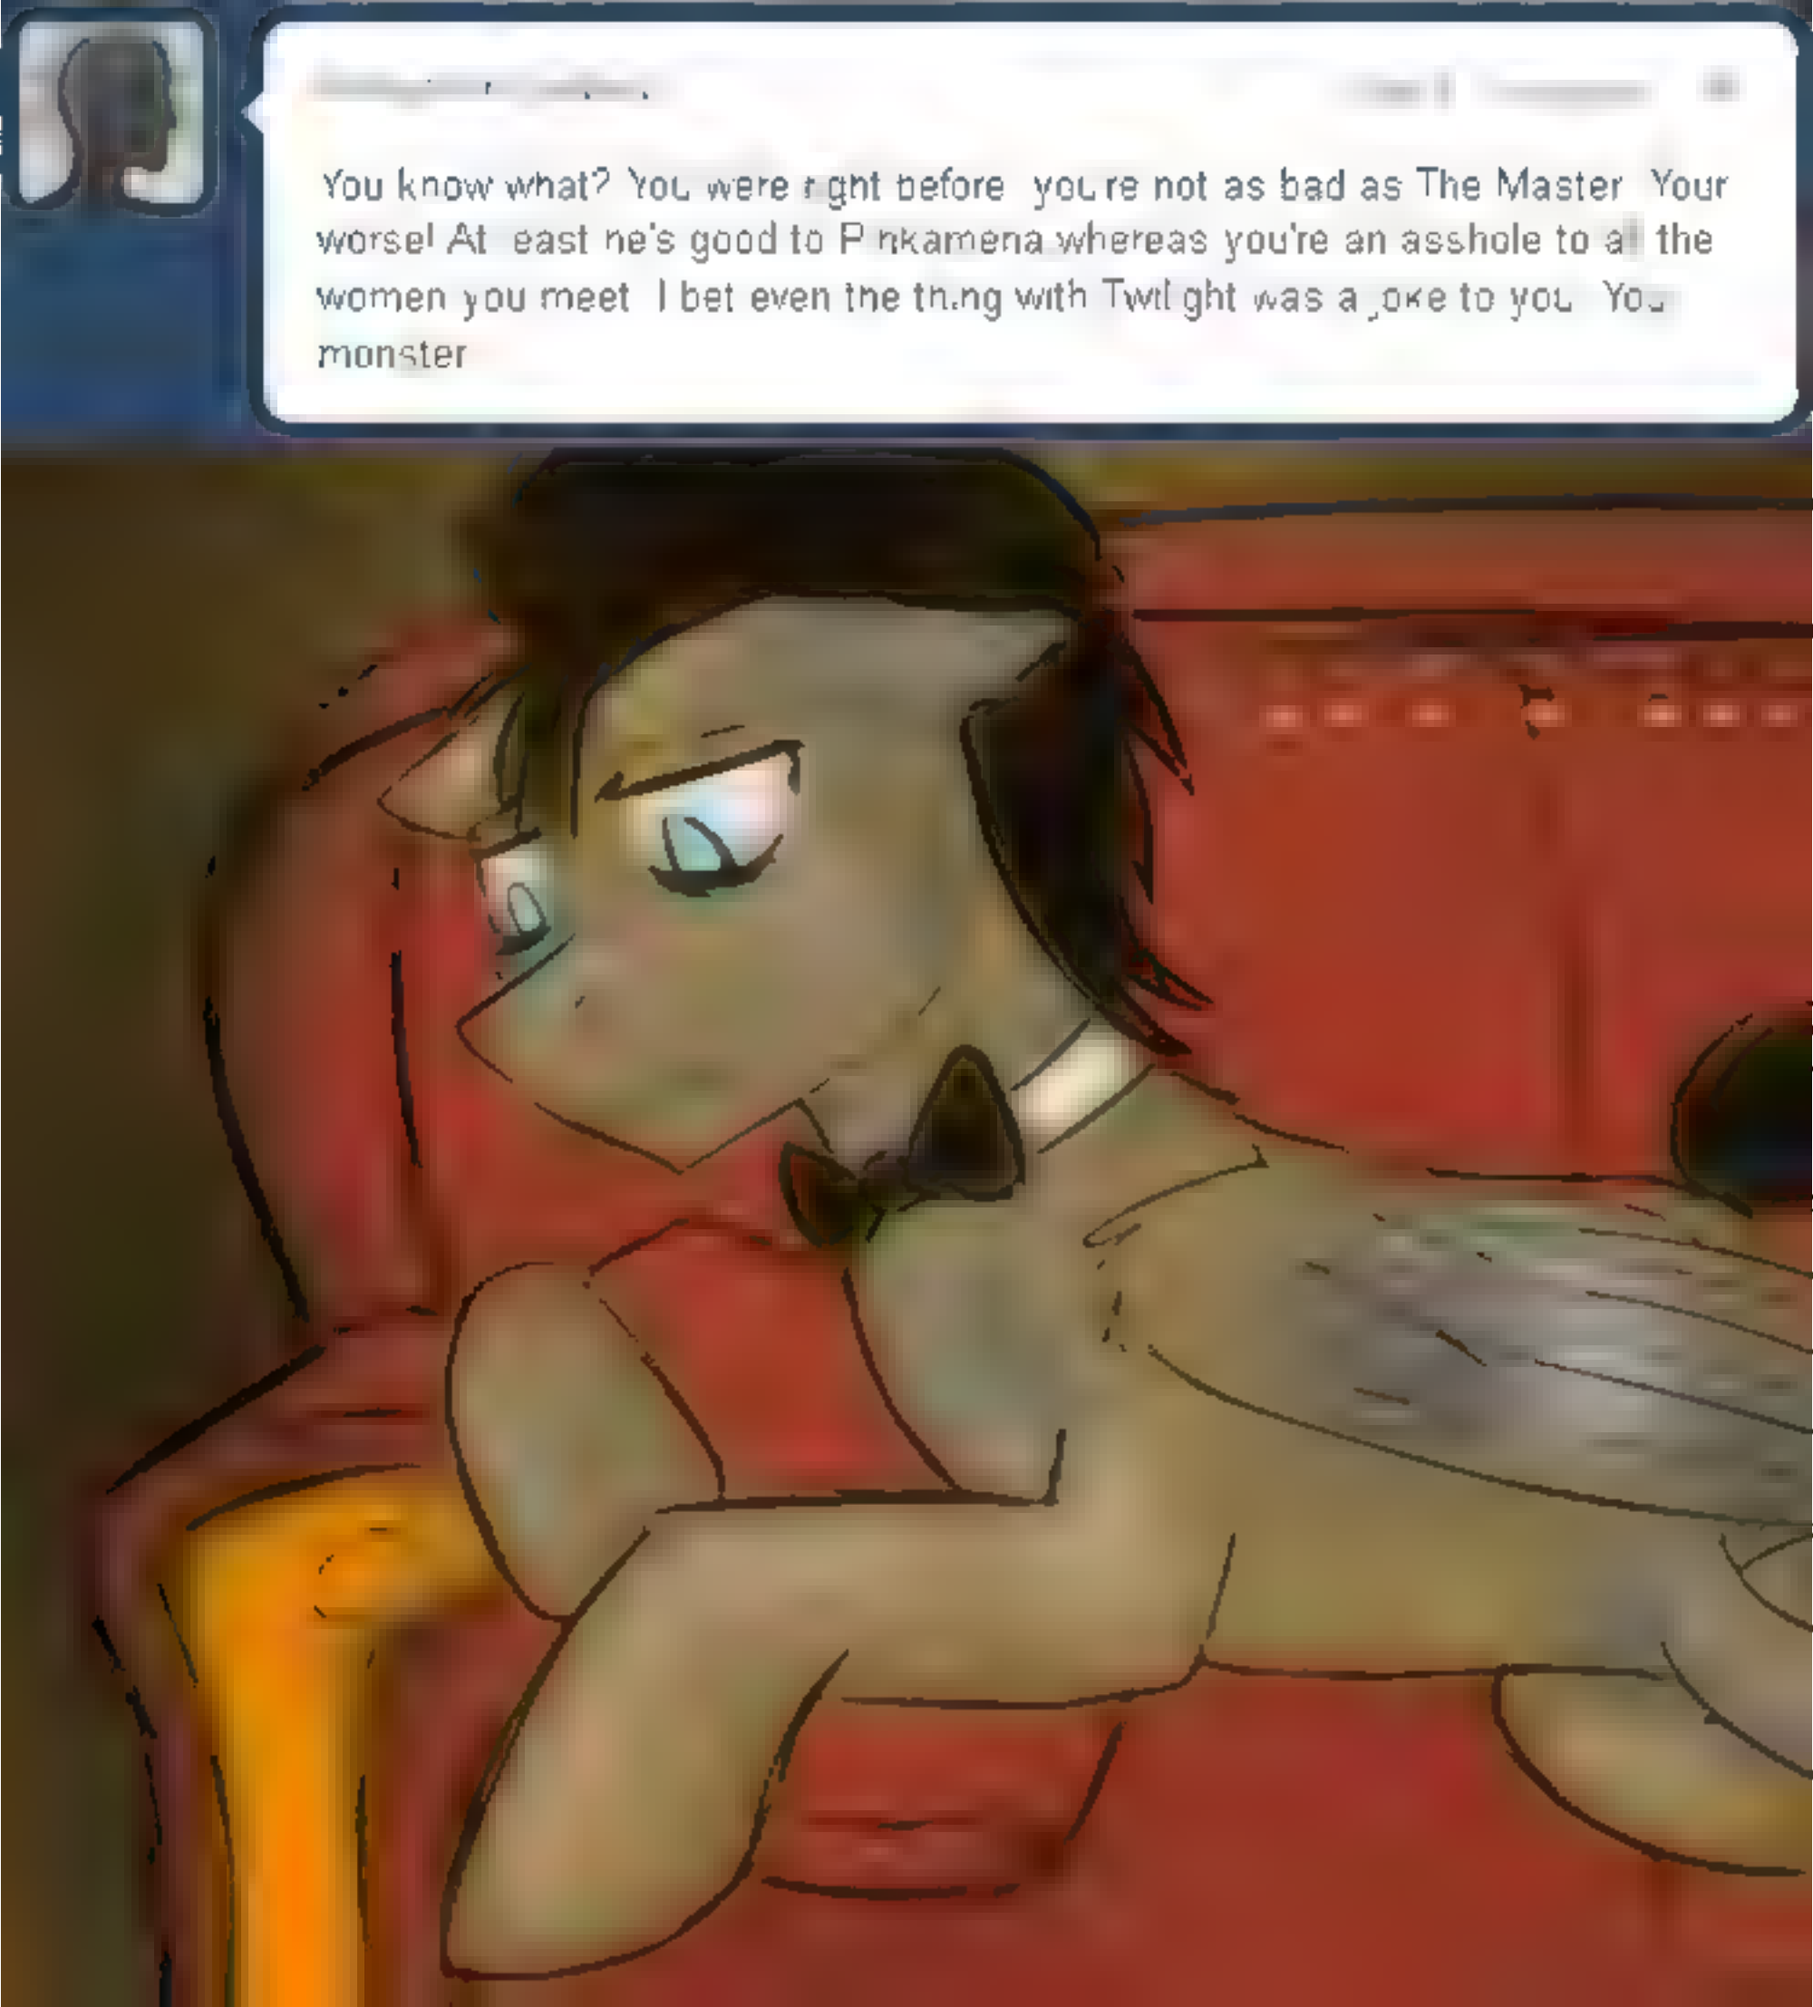
Are you sure that Twilight would be 'okay' with you sleeping with Rainbow? I mean, I know you're not together, but she IS one of her best friends, even if they're not necessarily from the same universe



You know what? You were right before you're not as bad as The Master Your worse! At least he's good to Pinkamena whereas you're an asshole to all the women you meet I bet even the thing with Twilight was a joke to you You monster

My question is if derpy and twilight were hanging off a cliff and you could only save one or throw yourself over the cliff saving both what would you do? Who would you save?
